DOYLESTOWN, Apr. 25—One of the suits filed in the Court of Common Pleas here, is that in which a Morrisville firm is being sued for $5,907.

THREE FAMILIES ARE FORCED FROM HOUSES

Fire at Albert Shueler Home,
Cornwells Heights; Smoke
Spreads to Two Others

LOSS ESTIMATE IS $900

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Apr. 25—Three families were forced from their homes when three row houses were damaged by fire, smoke and water this morning at 4.55.

The houses damaged are those of Albert Shueler, Theodore Shueler and Mrs. Fay Allen, Badenhausen Lane, off Bristol Pike. The property occupied by Albert Shueler was damaged by fire and water, the attic being considerably damaged. It is believed that the fire, apparently due to defective wiring, started there. The other two properties were slightly damaged by smoke and water.

Members of the three families forced out-of-doors, stood around with robes and coats over their night-clothes, watching the firemen in their battle. Water supply was provided by tank trucks. Companies responding were Cornwells Co., No. 1, Union Co. of Cornwells; and Eddington Company.

The families were able to return to their homes later. During the first few minutes some clothing was hurriedly taken from the properties by the occupants in case more serious damage was done to the structures.

Damage is estimated at $900.

TRUMAN FALLACIES

The recent address of President Truman, outlining the White House policy on various economic matters on the home front, was so full of absurdities, inconsistencies and self-contradictions that one hardly knows where to begin analyzing it.

Basic in his policy is the idea that wages ought to continue to rise—in "moderation," of course; but always on the upward trend—while prices ought to be reduced.

Nearly two years ago the President went to bat on the proposition that "wages can be increased 30 per cent without any need for increasing prices." That delusion stymied reconversion, greatly increased scarcities of civilian goods, brought about the worst 18 months of labor strife this nation ever saw, eventually sent prices skyrocketing—and in the end, broke the back of the Democratic Party.

That program was an essential part of what the American people said they had "had enough" of on election day.

And here it is back again. "This is where we came in!" Industry, upon which the prosperity of the American nation depends, is caught in exactly the same dilemma it faced two years ago. Rising wages on the one hand. A National Administration demanding lower prices on the other—broadly hinting that price controls will be re-established.

The President's speech was made shortly after an announcement had been published that steel had granted a new wage increase, and while motors were negotiating for a similar one. In the backs of the minds of the managements of these two industries was the hope, undoubtedly, that existing price levels would be maintained long enough for these higher wages to earn themselves out.

Now the President is on the air with a demand for the prices to be cut; intimating that profiteering is the only reason why they are high; blandly and openly warning off potential buyers, upon whose demand industrial activity relies for expansion, that if they will just hold off a while, he will get them cheaper prices.

Is that the way to get production started? Is that the way to achieve prosperity and stability? Of course not! But it is one way to play politics. It is a way to steam up dissension, confusion, unrest, to play the game of the radical element who want this nation to go Communist.

3 Juveniles Are Charged
With Robbing Home of
Aunt of One of Group

ARE BEING HELD HERE

Three youths, ranging in age from 14 to 15 years, are being held at police headquarters here, after being brought back from Pittsburgh. The trio allegedly entered the premises of Daniel Dunbar, Sycamore avenue, Crocydon, and robbed it of various articles valued at about $350, on April 16th.

The boys are listed as Kenneth Morano, 15, High street, Burlington, N. J.; and two brothers, Robert Strother, 14, and Melvin Strother, 15, New street, Newark, N. J.

According to the authorities Mrs. Dunbar is an aunt of Morano, and while the Dunbar family was away he took a key from a hiding place and the three boys entered the house.

Listed among the articles stolen were clothing, jewelry, and a radio. Some of the loot was disposed of, while some was found upon the boys when they were taken into custody.

Police learned that the boys had departed for Pittsburgh, and a message was immediately sent to police in that city to watch a certain address. It was there that the Pittsburgh police apprehended the boys and took them into custody. The trio was found in an unoccupied house which they had broken into and was in the act of robbing when arrested. The house was the home of another aunt of Morano, police say.

The boys were brought back to Bristol by Chief Bucks County Detective Anthony Russo and State Trooper Dane.

SEIZE STILL AND LIQUOR IN A RAID IN SOUTHAMPTON

State Liquor Control Board and Penna. State Police
Make Arrests

6 MEN ARE ARRESTED

Equipment Is Found in A Chicken Coop Near The
Hi-Way Pools

By International News Service
PHILADELPHIA, Apr. 25—The State Liquor Control Board announced today that it had seized a 100-gallon illicit still in Southampton Township, Bucks County.

A board spokesman said six men, all negroes, were arrested in the raid, which was staged shortly before last midnight.

In addition to the still, about 35 gallons of finished "liquor" and 450 gallons of mash also were seized, along with a Dodge truck and a Pontiac sedan in which the spokesman said raw materials were found.

The board identified three of the defendants as Jasper Lewis and John Simon, 26, both of North Crosskey street, Philadelphia, and George Hogg, also of Philadelphia.

State Police at Langhorne identified the other three as Clarence Hogg, 22, on whose property the still allegedly was found, Shelton Cooper, 42, of 2308 W. Oxford street, Philadelphia, and John E. Brown, 44, of 2430 West Arlington street, Philadelphia.

All were held in default of $1000 bail each by Justice of the Peace Horace Cooper, and remanded to the Bucks County Prison in Doylestown.

The Liquor Board spokesman said the distilling equipment was found in a chicken coop near the Hi-Way Pools. A cellar had been scooped out beneath the coop to conceal the still.

He refused to reveal the source of the tip leading to the raid, saying only, "we acted on information."

The spokesman pointed out, however, that Lewis, Simon and George Hogg "are well known to our agents, all having records of previous arrests."

The raid was conducted by agents of the Liquor Control Board, Bucks County authorities and State Police from the Langhorne Station.

Everybody Can Help By Giving To Cancer Fund

Every Pennsylvania family can help guard its home against cancer by giving one dollar to the Cancer $ Caravan, Col. John B. Warden, State campaign chairman of the American Cancer Society, declared today.

The Cancer $ Caravan was launched throughout the State last week to offer every Pennsylvanian an opportunity to fight cancer.

"Every Pennsylvania family owes a dollar to the Cancer $ Caravan," said Colonel Warden. "Last year only seven and one-half cents per person was contributed to fight cancer. That is not nearly enough to do the job of education, service and research which the Society has under way, and which is so necessary if we are to conquer this disease."

"Cancer is everybody's problem. It strikes one out of every two families. One out of every eight persons will die of it unless something is done about it now. The small per capita contribution of last year to combat the No. 2 killer is indicative that only a small portion of our population accepted its responsibility."

Dollars may be mailed to the American Cancer Society, State Campaign Headquarters, Capital Bank and Trust Company, Harrisburg, or to your local county unit.

PREDICTABLE SPRING

Spring is a coy maiden, the poets have it, given to hesitating advances and sudden retreats. Or she is a fickle jade—all smiles one moment, all tears the next, all cold fury the moment after. Or she is something else, but in any event feminine and full of swiftly-changing moods.

So we are told in rhyme and meter and we must grant the truth as well as the charm of these portraits painted by the brush of fancy. On any day in spring the sun can vanish in an instant to be followed by slashing rain. Or there will be two or three days of summerlike warmth and then a miserable period of wintry weather. Spring is mercurial, generous and stingy with her favors by turns, forever repenting her good and ill behavior, never to be fully trusted, always to be forgiven when she makes amends.

Yet it would be wrong to term her unpredictable. For beneath her seeming heedlessness there is a purpose and nothing is more certain than this—that it will be achieved. She is doing her work now.

Spring may hold her hand for a little or she may get on with her task in impetuous haste. This season honors no schedule. But in time everything will be done and the world be fitted out in its new garments ready for summer, for in the end the promise of spring is always kept.

NO SUCH PRICE-CUTTING

A copper cent dated 1943 is not exchangeable for a new automobile of a popular make. Newspapers in all parts of the country are printing stories denying this bit of wishful thinking. That it has gained nationwide headway is new proof that people believe what they like to believe. No doubt the prospect of obtaining a new car for one cent is attractive to many persons.

How hoaxes such as this gain currency—no pun intended—has never been satisfactorily explained. Not long ago a story was widely circulated via grapevine to the effect that the letters JS found on some Roosevelt dimes were Stalin's initials. They are also the initials of the designer of the coin, it was explained.

There are two reasons why a copper (they are really bronze) cent of 1943 date will not buy a new automobile of a certain popular make. The maker doesn't want to sell his cars for a cent, and no copper cents were minted in 1943, although nearly $11,000,000 worth of the white metal tokens were coined.

But thousands of persons will continue to scan their change eagerly, if somewhat furtively, in the quest for a 1943 copper. They know there is nothing to the yarn, of course, but they would like to believe there is.

Annual game of knocking down the price of wheat by forecasting a bumper crop in Kansas hasn't been working so well this year.

Will President Truman never learn that primer lesson in industrial economics—that wages are simply a form of price? They are the price which management pays to get certain work done. Trying to set up a group of rules which wages are to follow, distinct from those which prices follow, is utter folly.

Just as all other prices are a sort of economic barometer, and when they rise steadily show inflation to be in process, so do steadily rising wages, WHEN NOT ACCOMPANIED BY AN INCREASED PER-EMPLOYEE RATE OF PRODUCTION, prove that inflation rather than economic improvement is going on.

It is a point which has attracted some attention recently that the share in industrial profits which goes to labor has not increased a particle, despite rising wages. Labor still gets about what it got a generation ago—about 62 or 63 per cent of the final commodity price.

All that has happened is that inflation has boosted the dollar-price of all elements involved—the value of the dollar has slumped, everything else has stayed about the same.

This fact throws considerable light on some of the President's other remarks. For example, he boasted that average wages had risen from $654 a year, after taxes, in 1929, to $1090, after taxes, in 1947.

By some sleight-of-hand arithmetic, he attempts to argue that in buying value, the 1929 average income was worth only $825 compared to today's $1090. And then he tips his own hand by going on into violent complaint about the manner in which prices have soared—food up 36 per cent since 1945, house furnishings up 25 per cent, clothing up 24 per cent.

These figures ought to be enough to show that there is a basic fallacy in the President's argument. The fact of the matter is that he merely translated the Hoover dollars of 1929, worth 100 cents apiece, into New Deal 59-cent dollars, as of the first year of the Roosevelt Administration—and disregarded all of the immense increase in inflation which has taken place since, including that of the two Truman years.

Those who translate his statements into their own household affairs, and are old enough to remember such matters from 1929, will see at once where the fallacy lies. The bald fact is that, because of abundant goods at low prices, and capacity production, the buying value of the $654 in 1929 was perhaps half again as much as the average income of today.

Inflation has done the dirty work. And inflation is something which the President continues to misunderstand. He thinks of it only in the field of prices—which are the result, not the cause.

He is against tax cuts. Yet tax reductions, accompanied by a slash in Federal over-spending, would be the quickest way to lay the axe to the roots of inflation. In the long run, it makes very little difference whether the surplus, if any, is put to the national debt. That's not the active cause of inflation.

Most of the debt reduction carried out or projected by President Truman has been a mere transfer of the debt from one pocket to another. Credit inflation and currency inflation have been used to disguise the fact that debt inflation is continuing.

The President says he opposes tax reductions for exactly the reasons he ought to be for them; he's afraid of inflation. Of course, the tax-cuts alone would not stop inflation—they are merely a means to an end. The effect of tax-cuts would be to force a reduction in Federal spending. That's the real source of inflation.

The story of inflation in the United States is completely simple. It is simply that Uncle Sam, under President Truman, persists in spending too large a share of the national income.

The nation's economy can't afford the high cost of Truman government. It's as simple as that. It's a case of a person with a pork-and-beans income developing a caviar-and-champagne appetite.

The way to fight inflation can be put into the simplest of English.

Cut the tax rate. Cut U. S. spending in line with the lower tax rates. This will cut prices, make wages worth more, speed up the "full production" that everyone agrees is what the nation really needs.

There may be political reasons why the White House is against this—but there are no reasons soundly grounded in economics.

the "Crusade for Christ" movement of the Methodist Church.

Born in the Philippines and educated in evangelical schools on Luzon Island and at the University of the Philippines, Mr. Guansing came to the United States and was graduated at Union Theological Seminary, New York, N. Y., class of 1941. Immediately after graduation he returned to the islands, and was on Luzon when the Japanese made their attack upon Pearl Harbor and captured Manila. On his arrival in the Philippines, Mr. Guansing was made pastor of the large Central Student Church in Manila—the "Cathedral of Methodism" adjacent to the campus of the University of the Philippines. The church ministered largely to the students and faculty of the University. During the war years, and under Japanese occupation, Mr. Guansing continued to hold services and work among the students, often at the risk of his own life. When Manila was bombed, Central Student Church was totally destroyed, but Mr. Guansing moved his congregation to the Knox Methodist Church in another part of the city and carried on from that center.

Upon completion of graduate studies in Union, Mr. Guansing expects to resume his special ministry to the student groups of Manila.

Judge Dannehower, ruling on habeas corpus proceedings brought by her former husband, John H. Janney, vice-president and secretary of the Janney Cylinder Corporation, Holmesburg, decided that the children, Susanne, 14; John B., Jr., 11, and Benjamin S., 9, shall make their permanent home with their mother in Jenkintown Manor, Abington Township.

Each second week, Judge Dannehower declared, the children will be placed in the custody of their father, Janney, who lives in Feasterville, also may have the children for one month during the summer.

The couple separated in 1942. In January, 1946, Janney was awarded a divorce in the Philadelphia courts. The court was informed that on October 12, 1945, Mrs. Janney took the children to the home of Janney's parents and left them.

PITTSBURGH — (INS)—A bevy of smokeless heaters are now undergoing tests in four of the nation's principal cities to develop a practical heating unit giving smokeless, trouble-free operation. The Bituminous Coal Research Institute revealed that 25 such units are being tested in Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago and Indianapolis. All use a variety of coal to determine proper operating methods. Thus far, reports on units tested show satisfactory results. Smoke and soot formation has been practically negligible although western Pennsylvania coals with strong coking tendencies, and containing 30 to 40 per cent volatile matter, were used.

Users reported that the stoves give more heat than a conventional heater of equal size. Quantity production of smokeless heaters is expected to begin prior to next fall, with 18 stove manufacturers participating in the program.

Heavy users of soft coal are throwing away thousands of dollars according to the concrete-block trade. Coal ash cinders are coming into increasing demand for use as development into lightweight construction blocks. The anthracite industry's research program was given impetus recently when Interior Secretary J. A. Krug announced a $450,000 laboratory will be constructed at Hazleton, Pa. Construction is scheduled to start before June 30. Thirty engineers and technical assistants will comprise the staff of the new research laboratory which will conduct research on mining, preparation and utilization of anthracite. The laboratory, to be operated by the Bureau of Mines, will supplement work now being conducted in the anthracite industry's research laboratories and at Pennsylvania State College.

Ontario, Calif. — (INS)—Alarm at the state's rising divorce rate, Ontario pastors have pledged themselves not to marry divorced persons who cannot prove that divorce grounds were "sufficient from a Christian viewpoint." The Ontario ministerial union also urged feuding couples to consult a minister before visiting a divorce lawyer.

Our heavenly Father, this great world in which we live is Thy world and the object of Thy redeeming love. We pray for love that we may seek the well-being of all of our fellow men. We pray for faith, that we may do the work that Thou dost appoint us to do. We pray for patience, that we may be gentle and long-suffering in the service of mankind. We pray for wisdom, that we may speak right words and do the right things in all our endeavors. And finally bring us into Thine everlasting kingdom, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

SPORTSMEN'S BRIEFS

BY JOE ELBERSON

Big fleet . . . a total of 100 party fishing boats will sail from Wildwood and Cape May this season, according to a recent survey. This represents the biggest fleet in the history of these two shore points. Week-end trips will begin this Sunday at Wildwood, and the following Sunday the Cape May fleet will sail.

Record sales . . . 1,836,390 Federal duck stamps were sold from July 1 to December 31 last year to set a new record. This figure represented an increase of almost 300,000 over the same period in 1945.

Fishing contest entries . . . Paul Gerhart, teen-age Bensalemite, is off to a good start in the annual fishing contest conducted by the Bristol Fish & Game Protective Association for its members, and the open contest sponsored by Diamond Sporting Goods, Mill Street, with entries in two divisions. He has entered a 4-pound, 5-ounce catfish in the non-game division. This catch was made in the Neshaminy Creek on April 11. Paul also has a 1-pound, 6-ounce rainbow trout entered in the trout division.

Topping Gerhart's trout entry, however, is one by another youth, Howard Asay, Jr., Bath Road, Bristol, who has entered a 1-pound, 12-ounce rainbow.

Sounds exciting . . . a savage head-to-head fight for leadership between two enraged Big Horn sheep, one of the rarest spectacles of nature which can be witnessed by man, is one of the unforgettable features of "Realm of the Wild," the technicolor sound motion picture of American wild life just released.

Outwardly calm, the big sheep start their encounter as far as forty feet apart. Like self-propelled rams they charge at each other and meet head-on in mid-air. One slow motion sequence shows the conclusion of the fight as the shock waves set up by their impact ripple back from their heads, necks, and bodies and flip up their tails.

Four years were spent by crack cameramen of the United States Forest Service in making "Realm of the Wild," which is a half-hour digest of American wild life in its native habitats under conditions seldom seen by human beings.

The movie is presented for free public showing by the Western-Winchester divisions of Olin Industries, Inc., in co-operation with the Department of Agriculture. Interested groups may borrow the picture from the Sales Promotion Department, Winchester Repeating Arms Company, New Haven, Conn.

The picture includes the first movies ever made of the weird mating season dance of the sage grouse. Other sequences show bear, deer, antelope, moose, goats, grouse, marmoset, and other wild life.

Locales of the pictures include the Teton, Rio Grande, Superior, Apache, and Rocky Mountain National Forests as well as many other big game areas of the West.

This picture would certainly add to any program of our local sportsmen's groups.

Big business . . . more than 11 million sportsmen bought fishing licenses for the fiscal year ending June 30, according to a recent report of the Fish and Wildlife Service. Michigan topped the list with a sale of 304,556 licenses sold. Pennsylvania's sales for the same period were 267,000 licenses.

Wanted . . . all the help possible from interested sportsmen this Saturday and Sunday so that the pheasant pens can be completed this week-end. Come anytime from 8 o'clock either morning. Place: Bluffs, Edgely Avenue, Edgely. The work must be completed in the very near future as the day-old pheasant chicks will be coming along soon. The big job yet to be done consists of placing the wire over the pens.

BRISTOL TROUNCES NEWTOWN LASSIES IN A LEAGUE GAME

Bristol Girls Had a Total of 14 Hits, and Davis Led at Plate

FINAL SCORE IS 13 TO 2

Doan Hurlled for Bristol and Held Visitors To One Hit

The Bristol High lassies won their second straight game of the Lower Bucks County Girls' Softball League, yesterday afternoon, trouncing the Newtown ten, 13-2, on the local field.

The Bristol team had a total of 14 hits and were led at the plate by Dot Davis who hit a home run in the 9-run uprising in the third inning.

L. Doan, who hurlled for the Bristol team, held Newtown to a lone hit by Bosley in the second. She had 11 strikeouts and fanned the side in the first and final innings.

TOWNSHIP JUNIORS NOSE OUT BRISTOL AND WIN, 4 TO 3

Tilt Was A Hurling Match Between Muth and Harmon

MUTH ALLOWED 3 HITS

Harmon Had Eight Strike-Outs and Muth Set Down 12

The Bristol Township Junior High school team nosed out the Bristol Junior High nine, 4-3, in a closely-fought contest on the township field yesterday afternoon.

The tilt was a hurling match between Dave Muth, of the township team, and Dick Harmon, of Bristol. Muth gave up three hits, one less than allowed by Harmon. Harmon had eight strikeouts while Muth set down 12 via the strikeout route.

The winning run was scored in the last half of the sixth inning when Hibbs singled and advanced on an error by Pindar. Dominick advanced Hibbs with a sacrifice and Moll hit to right field where Rich errored to permit Hibbs to cross. Moll reached third on the play and scored when Braan grounded out.

Bristol had a 3-1 lead going into the last half of the sixth. It scored in the first on a double by Schrieber plus an error by Braan. In the third, errors by Braan and an out-field fly scored a run while in the fourth, Rich doubled with Harmon on base.

Township scored in the first on a walk to Dominick and a two-bagger by Moll. In the third another tally was registered when Braan walked, stole second, and scored on an error by Schrieber.
